Nurse Assaulted During Discharge at Rush University Medical Center; Assailant in Custody

A registered nurse at Rush University Medical Center sustained facial injuries Friday after being assaulted by a patient's family member during a discharge process in the surgical unit. Hospital security intervened and Chicago Police Department responded on scene. The nurse was treated and released; the assailant was taken into custody on battery charges. Hospital administration has issued a statement pledging a review of visitor management protocols in discharge areas, with an updated policy expected within 30 days.

UPDATE: Hartford Psychiatric Facility Incident — State Agency Releases Interim Report Citing Understaffing

Following the incident covered in yesterday's briefing at a Hartford-area psychiatric facility, the Connecticut Department of Mental Health and Addiction Services has released an interim internal report identifying chronic understaffing as a primary contributing factor. The report recommends mandatory security training refreshes and minimum staffing ratios during overnight shifts. A formal corrective action plan with binding timelines is due within 30 days. Union representatives have indicated they may pursue regulatory complaints if staffing floors are not codified.

Home Health Aide Attacked on Patient Visit in South Philadelphia; Third Incident This Quarter

A home health aide was attacked while conducting a scheduled patient visit in South Philadelphia on Sunday, marking the third reported violent incident involving home health workers in the region this quarter. The aide sustained minor injuries and local police are investigating. Industry advocates warn that home health workers remain among the most vulnerable in the sector due to the isolated nature of residential visits and limited access to real-time safety tools. The Pennsylvania Home Care Association has called on the state legislature to expand the Safe Patient Handling Act to cover home settings.

HHS OCR Imposes $2.1M Penalty Against Virginia Health System for EHR Access Control Failures

The HHS Office for Civil Rights announced a $2.1 million civil monetary penalty against a Virginia-based regional health system for systemic failures in EHR access control management spanning 2022–2024. OCR investigators found the covered entity had failed to implement role-based access controls, resulting in unauthorized workforce member access to over 14,000 patient records. The settlement includes a 2-year corrective action plan with mandatory quarterly compliance reporting to OCR. Security experts note the access control gap mirrors patterns identified in a 2024 OCR guidance bulletin, suggesting this enforcement action may signal an increased scrutiny cycle.

California AG Opens CMIA Investigation Into Health Tech Startup Over Menstrual Tracking App Data Sharing

The California Attorney General's office has opened a formal investigation under the Confidentiality of Medical Information Act into a San Francisco-based health technology startup following reports that its menstrual tracking application shared user health data with third-party advertising partners without explicit informed consent. If violations are confirmed, the company could face civil penalties and mandatory audits. The case is being watched as a bellwether for how CMIA enforcement will intersect with consumer health apps operating outside traditional HIPAA-covered entity structures.

Senate SAVE Act Advances Out of HELP Committee; Floor Vote Expected This Summer

The Workplace Violence Prevention for Health Care and Social Service Workers Act (SAVE Act) advanced out of the Senate HELP Committee on a bipartisan 14–9 vote Friday, setting up a potential floor vote before the August recess. The bill would require covered healthcare employers to develop and implement comprehensive workplace violence prevention plans under OSHA oversight, with civil penalties for non-compliance. The American Hospital Association has expressed qualified support while seeking amendments on small and rural hospital compliance timelines. Nursing unions are pushing for the bill to pass without weakening amendments.

Hospitals and Universities Reassess Contract Guard Training Requirements After Rise in Public-Facing Incidents

Security leaders across healthcare and higher education are increasing scrutiny of guard training, post orders, escalation protocols, and visitor-facing roles. The trend is being driven by workplace violence events, emergency department crowding, campus protest activity, and renewed concern over use-of-force exposure. Best-practice discussions are centering on healthcare-specific de-escalation, behavioral health response, clear law-enforcement handoff rules, and stronger alignment between contracted officers and clinical leadership.

Best-Practice Watch: Weapons Detection, Visitor Management, and Duress Tools Move Toward Integrated Programs

Healthcare security teams are moving away from single-point tools and toward layered programs that connect entry screening, visitor badging, panic buttons, video review, and incident reporting. The strongest implementations pair technology with clear policies: where screening occurs, who can deny entry, how alerts reach security, when clinical staff should disengage, and how incidents are documented for trend analysis and regulatory review.
